

"DIRTY" MC QUEEN MAY BE CAPTURED

Was in Flora, Illinois, Friday Night
And Was Recognized By the Police.

MESSAGE CAME FROM CHIEF

Asking If McQueen is Wanted And What the Reward Is For Arrest.

Marshal Abell this morning received a telegram and later a telephone message from the chief of police at Flora, Illinois stating that Harry McQueen, better known as "Dirty" McQueen, was seen there last night. He asked if the man was wanted here and if any reward was offered for his capture.

Marshal Abell notified him that there is a reward of $35 for McQueen's arrest and that the police here hold a warrant for his arrest. The Flora officer was instructed to arrest the man if he could be found today and to hold him.

McQueen is the man who it is alleged was the companion of "Skeeter" McBride, who was captured recently by members of the fire department, after the Teckemeyer grocery, Russell meat market and Phillip's saloon had been broken into and robbed. While in jail at Brownstown before being sentenced to the reformatory, McBride made a confession implicating McQueen in the robbery. It was also known that he and McBride had been together for several days prior to the robbery and the description given of the man who escaped by the firemen, was recognized by several railroaders as fitting McQueen.

The latter's home is at Mitchell and the Marshal there has been on the lookout for him. He was formerly in a reform school in Illinois and is well known along the B. & O., having bummed his way over the line frequently.

MAD RACE.

Which Resulted in a Capture By Officer.

Jason Manuel, who had been absent from the city some time, returned this week. Friday evening on east Second street he raised a disturbance indulging in considerable profanity.

Officer Thompson arrested him and started to jail. Just as they reached the entrance to the city building, Manuel jerked loose and ran. Thompson started in pursuit and a race which for speed and excitement rivaled the celebrated Indianapolis auto race, was the result. Thompson has splendid action when he gets thoroughly limbered up and has a three minute mark, but Manuel is also a rapid mover and as he tore through alleys and up one street and down another, he showed a total disregard of speed limit. Thompson tried to coax the fleeing man into halting by firing several shots into the air, but the thunder of the artillery only served to accelerate Manuel's whirlwind canter. Both men were running with their heads low and their tongues dangling in the feverish breezes and their exhausts out in violation of the new motorcycle ordinance.

Thompson was gradually dropping behind but Manuel did not know this and concluding that he would be captured, finally stopped in the west part of the city and laid down in an effort to hide from his pursuer. The officer however had his eye on the game at the time and soon had Manuel in custody again.

This morning the mayor fined him $3 and costs on a charge of profanity and not being able to pay, was taken to Brownstown jail by Thompson. If this case had failed, the officer had two other charges in reserve, resisting an officer and exceeding the speed limit.

"HOME GROWN STUFF" WANTED

People Like to Buy These Goods and the Merchants Like to Sell Them.

THE PRICES ARE QUITE HIGH

On Some Vegetables and Are Advancing.—Peculiar Season.—
The Market.

The demand for "home-grown stuff," for green stuff and small fruit is strong. The merchants like to handle the home grown goods and the people like to buy them. They are healthier and generally cheaper.

Fresh vegetables have been scarce in the market all spring and high in price. In some ways it has been a very peculiar season. The fresh goods started to come in early from the south and at reasonable prices as prices go at that time, but later the supply decreased and prices went up.

Two months ago when tomatoes began to come in from Florida they were plentiful and sold here for 10 cents a pound. Then came two or three weeks when there were none on the market. Two weeks ago they were selling in Seymour for 15 cents and now they are 20 cents, just double the price eight weeks ago. They come from Mississippi and other southern states now.

The price of new potatoes is soaring now and it is boosting the price of old potatoes. A few days ago the latter were selling at 55 cents wholesale and now the price is $1 wholesale in Indianapolis. New potatoes are 60 cents a peck here, which is an advance over the price quoted several days ago. They are selling at $1.80 a bushel in Indianapolis today and some commission men have informed local dealers that they expect them to go to $8 or $9 a barrel, the latter containing about 3 bushels.

Home grown beans appeared on the local market today in small quantities and they were warmly welcomed for the beans shipped in have been going up in price so fast recently that the excitement of the ascent has almost jarred the beans from the pods. Two or three weeks ago Seymour grocers bought them for $1.50 a short bushel wholesale and the price is now $3. The drought in the states south of the Ohio caused the advance.

One grocer paid $3 for 20 pounds Friday. They are selling here for 18 cents a pound or 20 cents for a small measure. The price a short time ago was 10 cents a measure.

Cabbage is very high. Home-grown peas were not as plentiful as usual this year.

The strawberry crop here and farther south was not what it has been some years. The quality in some sections was affected by the drought.

The last heavy rains finished the local crop. One grower said he picked 50 gallons one day and the next day could not have gathered a gallon from the patch on account of the rain.

Local gardeners have furnished plenty of radishes, lettuce and onions. Cherries are plentiful in the country. They came in a little earlier than usual and are retailing at 10 cents per quart or 30 and 35 cents per gallon.

Gooseberries are also plentiful and sell for 10 cents.

Raspberries have been slow in getting in. There are few ready for market at New Albany. Pineapples are plentiful and the price is low. Lemons, oranges and bananas are scarce and high.

The first water melons that will reach the local market will come from Georgia, and Mississippi will begin to ship them soon afterward. About the middle of July Posey county will begin to furnish melons and by the first of August people will begin to bury their faces in the best and most luscious of all the Indiana melons, those from Jackson county.

THE METHODISTS

At Crothersville Have Decided to Build New Church.

Recently it was decided to make extensive repairs to the Crothersville Methodist Church and work was begun this week. While excavating for a basement the north wall gave indications of collapsing and the conclusion was reached that it would be unsafe to proceed with the work contemplated.

K. of P. Decoration.

Reddington Lodge No. 281, K. of P., will hold memorial exercises at Reddington tomorrow afternoon. The members will meet at the hall in Reddington about 2:30 p. m. and go to the Christian church where the exercises will be held. A good speaker has been secured and the Reddington brass band will furnish the music.

All K. of P.'s are invited to assist in the exercises. All desiring to go from Seymour can leave on the 2 o'clock interurban car.

AN OLD TIMER.

Dry Land Terrapin Caught By Ray Keach.—Other Big Game.

Ray Keach and S. A. Shutters, at the former's farm near Tampico caught some big game Friday. Shutters killed a chicken hawk which measured three feet from tip to tip of its wings. The hawk has been preying on the chickens around Tampico for some time and Shutters at once became a hero in the community when he brought down the bird with a shot from his little 22 rifle. Keach also bagged some choice game. He captured a dry land terrapin which is undoubtedly one of the oldest citizens of the county if the date it carried on its back is truthful. The date is 1762 and is carved plainly on the shell. Mr. Keach brought the terrapin home and exhibited it at the store this morning. The dry land terrapin frequently lives to a very great age. It is claimed that some of them live to be several hundred years old.

In 1872 a Mr. Zollman near Medora caught one and carved his initials and the date on its shell. Two years ago while walking over the farm he came across the same terrapin and the date and initials he had carved so long ago still showed plainly.

EXPERIMENTING.

F. W. Spray Has One Variety That Promises Big Yield.

F. W. Spray, who thirty years ago lived on the Peters farm north of Rockford, but who now has a farm in the northeast corner of Jackson township, Bartholomew county, was in Seymour today. Mr. Spray has been experimenting with five varieties of wheat, the seed for which was furnished by the Purdue experiment station. Four of the varieties are not doing very well but the fifth promises a splendid yield. It is called "Abundance" and Mr. Spray had several heads with him. They showed an average of from 80 to 100 grains to a head, four in a mesh. The ordinary head of wheat has about 40 grains. Mr. Spray expects that this variety will yield about 50 bushels to the acre. Mr. Spray has prospered in Bartholomew county and though he isn't one of the farmers who rides in an automobile it is not because he can't afford it. He still recognizes Seymour as a good place to trade and while here bought a fine new buggy.

Healthy Teachers.

The state board of health, after a study of disease and death statistics concerning public schools, extending over several years, has issued a suggestion to school officials against the employment of teachers who are not physically well on the theory that the teacher should teach and exemplify health as well as culture, and that a teacher who is constantly "out of sorts," because of ill health can not teach pupils properly and can not render value received for the money paid her by the state. The suggestion is contained in a formal statement issued by the board.

Heart to Heart
Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE GREATER LOVE.

"I would die for you," he said. "No doubt you would do so," she replied. "I believe you. But would you live for me?"—A Modern Romance.

Under the surge of a mighty impulse there be those who would die for a great love or a great cause, but to live for the cause or for the loved ones—that is different.

Said the great Lover:
"Greater love hath no man than this—that he lay down his life for his friend."

You say that means that love seals itself by death. Yes, if necessary. But—

It means more. The lover may lay down his body if need be, but greater than that—he may lay down his life in living sacrifice. He may lay it down on the altar of daily self denial, it may be, through years—a sacrifice not of death, but of life.

Which means heroism.

I have before me as I write the letter of a woman who says: "I am tired of hearing about self sacrifice. In many cases where there is denial for others you merely make those others more selfish, and you get no thanks."

Certainly.
And that is why such sacrifice is a hardship and heroism is needed. A mother, for instance, whose denial of self is unappreciated by her children until she has gone beyond their ken, suffers a settled anguish.

The greater love requires that she shall love herself the last.

Whoever faces an irksome task for the sake of others, whoever lives to do the thankless service, whoever stints to keep wide open the door of opportunity for the children of tomorrow—those are the heroes of the greater love.

Who are they?
They are all about you—next door or just around the corner. The sacrificial surrender is common. Everywhere these great lovers plod in the treadmill of the dull, dull days—an elder sister of the family, a shabby coated man at his desk, the woman with her tub. Only you cannot see.

You see only the sordid toil. It is the love in the toil that is great and beautiful.

Greatness of whatever kind costs. The greatness of love is no exception. And the cost is the measure of its greatness.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has made it a favorite everywhere. It can always be depended upon. For sale by all dealers.

THE BOARD BROKE

Three Little Boys Precipitated Into River and Drowned.

Piedmont, W. Va., June 9.—Harold and Donald Albright, aged five and ten, only children of Dow Albright of this place, and Clement Ott, aged eight, of Grafton, W. Va., who was visiting relatives here, were drowned in the Potomac river. The boys, with several companions, were thrown into the river by the breaking of a board against which they were resting. The water is high and swift, and it may be weeks before the bodies are found.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with difficulties by day or night.

ABSOLUTE CALM
IN MEXICO CITY

All Classes Have Confidence In Madero.

RECOGNIZED AS THE RULER

President De La Barra and Cabinet Officers Confer With Liberator, and Not an Appointment Is Made Without His Counsel—Business Is Improving and Merchants Show Confidence in the New Democracy.

Mexico City, June 9.—In all circles an excellent impression was caused by the perfect order that prevailed in the city upon the arrival here of Francisco I. Madero. The people were expecting an outbreak and doubted the ability of the new government to preserve order without the assistance of the police and armed guards. The result is a victory for democracy. Madero's position is without question stronger than it has been at any time since his victory at Juarez. Even the opposition has been led to respect him and his men since the orderly reception of Wednesday.

President De La Barra and several of the cabinet ministers called on Madero to confer upon government matters. It is recognized that Madero is ex-officio ruler of the country, and no appointments are made without consulting him. He probably will leave soon to review the army in the south. He will immediately attempt to reorganize the states of Guerrero and Morales, and put the government there as well as elsewhere upon a sound and secure basis of peace.

Mexico City is full of Maderista soldiers, who are parading the streets afoot and on horseback, fully armed and with cartridge belts swung across their shoulders.

The soldiers have not been molested by the police. The condition of the city is that of absolute calm. Business has been improving for the past week. Merchants generally are inclined to believe that the worst is over and to show confidence in the new democracy.

TREASURE TROVE

San Franciscans Said to Have Unearthed Lost Millions.

San Diego, Cal., June 9.—If stories received from Salinas Cruz, Mexico, may be accepted as true, buried treasure the value of which is variously estimated at from $15,000,000 to $65,000,000 has been recovered by a party of searchers who left San Diego several weeks ago on the oil-burning steamer Eureka. The message reads: "Expedition a success in every way. Reach San Diego for oil next week. Meet us."

The treasure was hidden by the crew of a Chilean cruiser off the coast of Honduras more than a generation ago. The Eureka is commanded by Captain Burtiss and was about two weeks ago taken for a sixty-day charter by a party of San Franciscans. Their movements were so enshrouded in mystery that it was suspected the steamer was being chartered for a filibuster against Mexico. The expedition is said to have been backed by Harry Krelling, a San Francisco club man.

The map showing the location of the buried treasure was in the possession of a former resident of Honduras who tried for many years to attract capital to finance an expedition. He was unsuccessful up to the time he met Krelling some weeks ago.

RUN DOWN BY TRAIN

Officers and Their Prisoners Caught at Crossing and Four Killed.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 9.—Four persons were killed and one was probably fatally injured when the wagon in which they were riding was struck by a Norfolk & Western train. The dead are: Mrs. Martha Noel, James Payne, town constable; John Ashworth and Edward Jones. Charles Oades, a negro, was seriously injured. He is the only person who can tell of the accident, as the train crew knew nothing of the accident. Mawha Noel and Oades had just been tried on a serious charge at a justice of the peace's office and both were found guilty. They were turned over to Constable Payne, who started for his home, where he was to keep the prisoners for a day, when they were run down by the train. Ashworth and Jones were helping Payne guard the prisoners.

Philadelphia Strike Growing.

Philadelphia, June 9.—Following the example of 2,200 boilermakers who went on strike at the Baldwin Locomotive works, members of other unions left their posts, and it is said that 7,500 workmen have quit work. The discharge of five members of a committee selected by the boilermakers to urge the reinstatement of a man who had been laid off precipitated the strike.

Startling Story of Crime.

St. Petersburg, June 9.—A criminal who murdered an officer of the army and the officer's wife at Sebastopol was arrested at Tsaritsyn and now says that he has in the course of his career killed fifty-seven persons.

WILLIAM LOWE BRYAN

President Indiana University
Entertaining Graduates Today.

Bloomington, Ind., June 9.—The first event of Indiana university's eighty-second annual commencement exercises is being held this afternoon. President and Mrs. William Lowe Bryan entertaining the 352 graduates and other recipients of degrees at a reception at their home. President Bryan has announced the list of recipients of degrees, which includes two doctors of philosophy, forty-nine bachelors of law, forty masters of arts, forty-six doctors of medicine and 215 bachelors of arts.

THOUGH TOWN VOTED
WET IT IS TO BE DRY

Commissioners Decline to Grant Licenses.

Bloomington, Ind., June 9.—After considering the seven applications for licenses which were placed before them the report that the Monroe county commissioners made was: "On account of conscientious reasons two of the members of the board refuse to vote for liquor licenses and all the applications are refused." Commissioners Lyman Dunlap and John C. Clay refused to vote for license under any circumstances.

The commissioners made their finding after they had considered the applications and heard the testimony as to the good character of the applicants. A motion for dismissal of the applications made by the attorney for the temperance people was overruled by the commissioners before the applications were considered, and it was thought by the crowd in the commissioners' room that the licenses would be granted.

Most of the men applying for licenses had their places ready to open. The saloon men will take the matter to the circuit court. Under the law it will be ten days before the circuit court can take the case up.

MEXICO QUAKE THE WORST SINCE 1882

Greater Part of the Republic Was Affected.

Mexico City, June 9.—Although this city suffered worse than any other place, the earthquake that visited Mexico City Wednesday extended over the greater part of the republic. Guadalajara reports that Tonila, a small town on the slope of Colima, a volcanic mountain, was completely destroyed, but the number of killed is not given. Most of the inhabitants, warned by the slight shakes that preceded the heavy shock, fled from the town before the buildings tumbled down. The cathedral was completely destroyed. There were few accidents to persons at Guadalajara and no one was killed.

Passengers arriving here from Guadalajara report that Zapotlan, a small town near Colima, was destroyed and that fifty-nine bodies were taken from the ruins.

The states of Guerrero and Morales, which usually suffer greatly from earthquakes, were only slightly affected by the shocks. The director of the Geological Institute declares that the quake was the worst since 1882.

DOUBLE INDICTMENTS

Arraigned For Killing Constable and Woman, Moon Pleaded Not Guilty.

Danville, Ind., June 9.—The grand jury of the Hendricks circuit court has returned indictments against James Harvey Moon for the murder, May 26, of Constable Oliver W. Wilhoite and Mrs. George Baldo. Moon has been arraigned for the Wilhoite murder, and at once entered a plea of self-defense. Coroner G. G. Allred has not filed his verdict in the two cases.

OUTDOOR POOR
RELIEF IS LESS

Gratifying Showing Is Made In Indiana.

GENERAL REDUCTION NOTED

State Board of Charities Makes Report of Expenditures of Township Trustees During the Past Year, Which Shows a Decided Falling Off in the Demands For Relief to the Needy.

Indianapolis, June 9.—In sixty-one of the ninety-two counties, the sums expended by township trustees in 1910 for outdoor poor relief to persons who are not inmates of public institutions, were less than the amounts expended in the preceding year, according to figures compiled by the board of state charities showing expenditures. Of these counties nineteen showed decreases of more than $500. The amount expended in the state in the year for needy or such poor relief was $13,786.15 less than for the preceding year.

The total amount expended was $266,181.16. In fifty townships no aid was given, twenty-three of this number having made a like record for the preceding year. In 440 townships the aid given amounted to less than $100; in 402 townships the amounts were between $100 and $500.

One of the interesting reports was received from Vincennes township, Knox county, where Vincennes is situated. In that township an increase of $4,881.04 was noted, the total amount expended being $8,467.38. The township trustee attributed the increase to a large number of cases of sickness, and to a large number of indigent persons "shipped in" from other townships.

CHICAGO CONGRESS TO SOLVE PROBLEMS.

International Gathering Will Bring Together Noted Experts.

Much interest is being manifested in the international municipal congress and exposition to be held in Chicago Sept. 18 to 30, and arrangements are being made for the reception of a large number of visitors from the principal cities of the United States and several foreign countries.

It is believed that through this municipal exposition, making possible comparisons between various communities with reference to their systems of government, their notable accomplishments of the past and their plans for the future, there will be created a spirit of rivalry and civic pride that will do much for the advancement of municipal betterment.

Experts of worldwide fame and known ability in matters pertaining to municipal government will be in attendance at the exposition, and addresses will be made on many subjects of vital interest to municipalities generally.

It is considered that this is the most comprehensive attempt ever made to bring together the most intelligent educators in all lines of municipal endeavor.

Health and sanitation, including garbage collection and its disposition and the prevention and suppression of epidemics, will be given especial attention during the session of the congress, as will also the subject of taxation. This latter will include discussions of equalizing taxation, restriction of a city's taxing powers, methods of collection of taxes and their disbursement.

Among other subjects to be discussed will be that of public utilities. Included in this will be the subjects of franchises, municipal ownership, street lighting, water systems, docks and water transportation and modern housing.

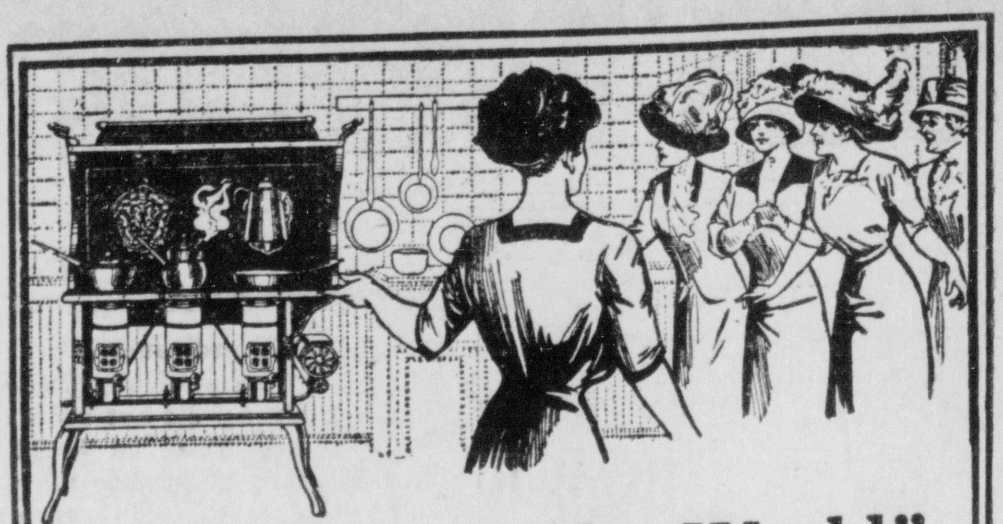

SCHMITZ PENNILESS.

Ex-Mayor of San Francisco Is Stranded in Mexico.

Former Mayor Eugene Schmitz of San Francisco, who escaped going to state prison with Abe Ruef on graft charges through a flimsy technicality and is now at liberty under heavy bonds, is reported to be stranded and penniless in Mexico. It is said that he has dissipated his fortune, estimated at $500,000, in hazardous mining and business ventures and now lacks money to pay for his fare home.

When Schmitz was trying to get out of jail on bail he obtained the assistance of William J. Dingee, an Oakland capitalist. In return Dingee induced Schmitz to invest many thousands of dollars in a large cement factory near Santa Cruz, in California. This company came to grief when Dingee failed last year, and Schmitz lost every cent he invested in it. Then a mine at Oroville, in Butte county, in which Schmitz invested considerable money, turned out a failure after showing some rich ore.

In despair Schmitz then started for Sinaloa, Mexico, where his brother is interested in a mine, but a letter has been received by one of his friends saying this mine is also worthless and that Schmitz is in the straits described. All he now has is the fine Schmitz home in San Francisco, which, however, is in his wife's name.

"The Best in the World"

As the bride led her friends into her cool, spotless kitchen, they broke into a chorus of approval.

"Well, I am proud of it," she said, "and proudest of all of my stove. It's a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove, and I think they are the best in the world. They toast, roast, broil and bake equally well—really to perfection—and the kitchen stays much cooler and cleaner than with any other range. This stove cuts my kitchen work almost in half."

There is no wood or coal to carry for a New Perfection; no ashes to clean up. It is ready for use as soon as lit; out at a touch of the fingers—economical as well as quick and convenient.

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FRAME
Oil Cook-stove

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Handily finished throughout. The 2- and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc. Dealers everywhere; or write for descriptive circular to the nearest agency of the

THE
"FAWN BUTTER"

SEE that the grocer gives you the cracker with the name "FAWN" stamped on it.

"FAWN BUTTERS" are mixed and baked to retain their original crispness. The first "bake" every morning is "Fawn Butters." Not a single cracker is over 24 hours old when it leaves our factory.

Try "FAWN BUTTERS" with the soup tomorrow at dinner.

Keep "FAWN BUTTERS" in the cupboard or pantry for the always-hungry youngster. They are wonderfully wholesome.

Take "FAWN BUTTERS" with you on the picnics this summer.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS

BY
REV. SAMUEL W. PURVIS, D.D.

THE TOUCH OF THE DEAD.

Text, "When the man touched the bones of Elisha he revived and stood on his feet."—II Kings xiii, 21.
Early summer in Israel. Crops just about ripe. Time for Moabite raiding parties. These foraging marauders had worked their depredations until the Israelites were panic stricken. A funeral party is winding its way in solemn procession alongside a hill. Suddenly some one calls, "The Moabites come!" The dead man's friends look about where to quickly conceal his body and escape. They choose—whether by accident or intention it is not told—a cave which is the tomb of the prophet Elisha. The Jews made no use of coffins. At the end of the tomb the body of Elisha lay in its graveclothes. As the body of the young man was pushed into the sepulcher it touched the form of Elisha. The mere contact with those hallowed bones produced that from Elisha which had in life cost prayer and exertion. The man revived; stood on his feet and hastened home with his friends. Elisha had been honored in his death, Elisha with his death.

The Afterglow.

Life does not begin at the cradle nor end at the grave. The sun sets in the golden west, but leaves a glorious twilight that leads us home. The tree falls in the forest, but in after days it burns and glows and cheers in our grate. The tiny coral insect dies, but the reef it raised breaks the surge on the shores of a great continent. We shall not only live in another, a spirit world, but we shall live on here as influences and forces in this world. "The evil that men do lives after them; the good is often interred with their bones," said Mark Antony. That's a miserable untruth, because it is a half truth. Not only does evil live after us, but good too. David has been dead 3,000 years, but his Psalms are following him. Moses and Paul centuries since were dust—not even their place of burial is known—but their words will sway the rod of empire for untold generations. They belong to the roll call of the past, those "who being dead yet speak." Men die, but their work lives on. The world is young. For awhile we wield trowel or pen. Brain thinks, eye looks, tongue speaks. The pyramid is building. The twentieth century will not rock it down, nor the thirtieth, nor the one hundredth. Lincoln, living, was an American, northerner, Republican. Today no section, no party—indeed, no nation—can claim him. He belongs to humanity, to "the parliament of man, the federation of the world." Death and flight of years have no power to destroy them.

Thoughts Expressed in Things.

The Olympic and the Titanic will tell in a few months that Watts and Stevenson still live. Marconi and the Wrights will still live when their names are illegible on the tombstone. The inventor is dead, but his busy fingers are still weaving warm textures for the poor. The road builder and the bridge constructor will walk by the side of the daily thousands. The death of a wolf means a meal for the other wolves. The death of a thinker means a meal, mental instead of physical, for those left behind. Wolves feed their stomachs; we feed our brains—on the dead. You cannot overestimate the touch of the dead. They are the glasses through which we look at the past. The distant is brought near. A writer in a garret may shout a message to the world. Who writes a book? The man with a message. What are its contents? The best in his soul. I can touch the bones of Macaulay or Emerson, Tennyson or Longfellow, and the inspiration of their lives lifts me when sinking, and, like the young man of the text, I revive and stand upon my feet. In my room I have the world's great men talk to me—historians, musicians, philosophers, preachers. And they talk their best—best diction, best grammar, best style, best thought. Out from the Bible Moses and Joshua and Daniel thrill me as they thrilled the Jewish heart centuries ago.

"The Touch of the Vanished Hand." The influence of our dead is very great. We think we have lost them because we do not see them, and we sigh.

Oh, for the touch of a vanished hand And the sound of a voice that is still when they are near to us. Death is cleansing. It sweeps away the faults and blemishes we saw in the flesh and leaves only a remembrance that is good and beautiful. I have known cases where a mother accomplished things after her death that she could not while living. Many a prodigal has been brought home and "comes to himself" under the touch of a mother that has gone from him. I know parents who are being led by little baby fingers long since passed away. If I wanted to appeal to their better nature I would appeal to the memory of that little boy or girl. A mother shows me the book in which the baby scribbled. Wondrous skill. Here's the "little toy dog all covered with dust." Here's the high school diploma the pale faced, sober eyed girl brought home one June day. "She led her class." Ah, me! Somehow I believe they are still with us. Life is stronger than death. Love leaps the grave. If Christ be here, why not they?

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Oo.

Your Neighbor's Experience

How you can profit by it. Take Foley Kidney Pills. Mrs. Nancy Keneipp, 1228½ Wabash Ave., Terre Haute, Ind. writes: "I had a great deal of trouble with my kidneys and bladder in the past few years. My kidney action was too frequent and pained greatly. At this time I read of Foley Kidney Pills, and started using them at once. They helped me right from the start, causing my kidneys to act normally, and there was no more burning sensation. I am now entirely over all my trouble and thank Foley Kidney Pills for my cure." A. J. Pellens.

Her Wish Was Gratified.

Evansville, Ind., June 9.—Mrs. Margaret C. Gann, aged twenty-three, drowned herself in a pond near the city. She left a note saying she hoped her husband, who had abandoned her, would gaze upon her dead face. Her wish was gratified.

The woman of today who has good health, good temper, good sense, bright eyes and a lovely complexion, the result of correct living and good digestion, wins the admiration of the world. If your digestion is faulty Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct it. For sale by all dealers.

Secret agents of the Mexican government are being scattered along the border, it is declared, at El Paso, to watch for juntas which they believe the Socialists are going to form with the idea of opposing Madero with armed force.

There is one medicine that every family should be provided with and especially during the summer months; viz, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed. It costs but a quarter. Can you afford to be without it? For sale by all dealers.

Tried to Steal a Ride.

Evansville, Ind., June 9.—Attempting to steal a ride on a fast train, Raymond Brott, aged thirteen, fell under the wheels and his foot was crushed.

Whooping cough is not dangerous when the cough is kept loose and expectation easy by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has been used in many epidemics of this disease with perfect success. For sale by all dealers.

The report of the First National Bank which was published yesterday in the Republican shows the usual healthy condition of this bank. This has always been recognized as one of the strongest financial institutions in Southern Indiana. Its business has shown a steady growth notwithstanding the fact that there are numerous banks in all parts of the county where a few years ago there were very few.

C. W. BURKART,

June 1, 1911. City Treasurer.

Greeting Old Comrades.

William B. Clifton, now of Indianapolis, was here Friday shaking hands with some of his old comrades of the Civil war.

Mr. Clifton was in Co. K 38th Ind. or 8th Calvary. Peter Tasker, Harmon Meyers and William Bohall, of this city, were in the same company.

He has written a story which is now in book form, giving a good brief history of Andersonville and Libby prisons. He was wounded at Atlanta, Ga. in 1864 and was captured and taken to Andersonville. The story gives a vivid sketch of life in these Southern prisons.

He is happy and still thankful to have escaped from the cruelty of the prisons as soon as he did.

The old soldiers believe that the memory of those prisons will pass into the forgotten only when the last tongue is hushed.

Mr. Clifton went to his old home in Shoals to visit relatives for a week.

Handkerchiefs Must Go.

That the use of the ordinary pocket handkerchief, except for ornamental purposes will be abolished within the next fifteen years, was the declaration made by Severance Burridge, professor of hygiene and sanitary science at Purdue University, during the course of his address on "The Scientific saving of Life" at the thirty-second annual commencement exercises of the Indiana Dental College last night in Indianapolis. Dr. Burridge asserted that the pocket handkerchief is one of the most insanitary things in common use. He said that the public must be educated along lines of hygiene as the doctors have been directing their skill toward cutting instead of preventing diseases. Each person he said, should become a scientific life saver and protect his life by leading a hygienic life.

SIGNAL LIGHT FOUND BROKEN

Train On the E. J. & E. Ditched
By Wreckers.

THREE ARE FATALLY INJURED

Semaphore Light at a Derail Was Tampered With and Engine Plunged Down Embankment and the Engineer and a Brakeman Were Caught Beneath Wreckage of Cab—Engineer Thought Track Was Clear.

Hammond, Ind., June 10.—In the wreck of a train on the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroad, which is attributed to tampering with a semaphore light at a derail, three men were fatally injured.

The injured are Henry Larsen, Joliet, engineer, scalded and crushed about the body and taken to Mercy hospital, Gary; C. R. McKnight, Joliet, brakeman, jaw broken, scalded about the body, taken to Mercy hospital, Gary; John McGraw, Joliet, fireman, scalded and burned about the head.

The southbound freight train, in charge of C. R. Wilbur, conductor, ran into an open derail. Investigation showed that the red light in the semaphore had been broken out, indicating to the engineer that the track was clear. The engine plunged down an embankment and the three injured men were caught under the wreckage of the cab.

THEIR BUSY NIGHT

Pickpockets Pick Up $2,000 in a Hammond Crowd.

Hammond, Ind., June 10.—Professional pickpockets worked in a crowd of 1,500 at a boxing exhibition at the Hammond Athletic club, and forty persons reported to the police that they were robbed of diamonds and money.

The police picked up twenty pocket-books that had been emptied of their contents and thrown on the floor. Sunny Sheets of Indiana Harbor lost a five-karat diamond, which was jerked from his shirt front. It is estimated that pickpockets cleaned up at least $2,000.

HE WAS PLEASED

Expecting Death Sentence, Mann Accepted Prison Term Gratefully.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 10.—Gravilla Mann, a Roumanian laborer, who, during an affray on the night of May 14, stabbed Eli Coucher to death here, entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced for two to twenty-one years. Mann appeared pleased with his sentence, as he had the impression that a death penalty would be imposed.

To Wind Up Company's Affairs.

Michigan City, Ind., June 10.—Harry W. Richter has been appointed receiver of the Michigan City Sash and Door company. The petition for a receiver was filed by John J. Stevens, the president, and the company joined in the application. The assets are placed at $40,000 and the indebtedness at $100,000. The receiver was directed to wind up the company's affairs as rapidly as possible.

He Was Despondent.

Lafayette, Ind., June 10.—Samuel Little, aged fifty-two, a Benton county farmer, was brought here in a dying condition, with one-half of his face shot away by a charge from a shotgun. He placed the butt of the gun on the floor and the muzzle under his chin, then pressed the trigger with his toe. He has been despondent for several weeks.

Crows Find a Friend.

Indianapolis, June 10.—The commissioners of Marion county have set their faces against doing anything under the new law providing for a bounty on crows. "I'm the friend of the crow and don't believe in killing him," said Commissioner James Kervan, who is a farmer.

Suspicion of Foul Play.

Columbus, Ind., June 10.—The body of James Hobson likely will be disinterred. Since his supposed accidental drowning in White river last Sunday circumstances have arisen pointing to the possibility of foul play.

Sunday School Workers Gather.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 10.—The Indiana Sunday School association's annual convention in session here, is the most largely attended meeting in the history of the association.

He Didn't Appear For Trial.

Elkhart, Ind., June 10.—William Morisen, arrested as a pickpocket, forfeited $1,000 cash bail rather than stand trial. He failed to appear when his case was called.

Leaped Into Cistern.

Evansville, Ind., June 10.—Driven desperate by poor health, Mrs. Rosa Bachman, aged forty years, committed suicide by jumping into the cistern at her home.

Flyers to Meet at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 10.—An aviation meet is to be held here under the auspices of the Elks, June 16-18.

DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE.

WOMAN WINS OUT IN A BATTLE OF WITS

Plays Cards With Burglar for Safety Stakes.

Helena, Mont., June 10.—Ability to play cards saved from being robbed the home of Mrs. V. Holmes. Aroused at midnight by a noise, she descended to the first floor and was confronted by a masked man, armed. She beseeched him not to rob the house. He refused to listen until, after she had plied him with liquor, he agreed to play her three games of seven-up to decide the matter.

"Seated at the dining room table, we began playing," said Mrs. Holmes, "he with his gun beside his hand, I attired in my nightdress."

She won the three games and the burglar arose. Mrs. Holmes escorted him to the front door.

"If you are ever confronted by misfortune," the burglar told Mrs. Holmes, "kiss her hand, 'speak to the persons who can aid you, for the sweetness, the charm of your voice will subdue the most savage beast of the forest.'" Then he disappeared. Mrs. Holmes says she has had much to do with bankers, and is convinced from the way the fellow dealt the cards that he worked once as a bank teller.

SIX WERE KILLED

When a Fast Passenger Train Dashed Head-On Into a Work Train.

Denver, Col., June 10.—Train No. 3 on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe collided with a work train between Los Corellos and Lomingo, eighty-five miles west of Las Vegas. Six men were killed, two being trainmen, and fifteen seriously injured. A misunderstanding of orders caused the disaster. The limited was running fifty miles an hour and struck the work train head-on. Both locomotives and six coaches and the work cars were piled in a mass.

More U. S. Troops Withdraw.

Washington, June 10.—President Taft has approved a war department order which will return to their posts the 4,000 soldiers at Galveston, Tex., and the 1,500 at San Diego, Cal.

The latter received but a small amount of the money charged for transporting the body, though the total cost was $118. Frank Ross, the father, will make an investigation of the heavy charges and may possibly institute a suit against the Wells-Fargo Co.

TRIED IT HERE.

Man Tried to Cash Money Order Which Was Fraudulent.

The police at Louisville are looking for a stranger who got $21 from a boarding house keeper at Sellersburg Friday night on a money order which it is claimed had been raised. The same man blew in at the interurban station here yesterday afternoon and asked Agent Chambers to cash the order, stating that he had to catch a car and needed the money. Mr. Chambers wisely declined to thaw out on the proposition and the stranger went on to Scottsburg where it is learned he tried the game on the agent there with no better success. He then boarded a car for Sellersburg and in that town found the accommodating party he had been looking for.

The order was issued at Edinburg and it is claimed at Sellersburg that investigation shows it was raised from $1. People are wise not to cash orders for strangers and drawn on other cities than the one in which they live.

Man a Working Machine.

Man of today is as near a machine as he probably ever can become, and still exist. To keep him in perfect "running order" he has to be treated as such. Now, if your watch or auto had slipped a cog, or was "clogged up" with foreign matter threatening its very existence unless removed, would you apply acid or dope to rid it of foreign matter or to adjust its parts?

—As With Auto and Watch—so with the human body, it gets out of running order through the process of life and needs repairing. No defective machine can turn out good work. Every day that an "unclean" watch or auto, or any other machine is compelled to run, wears seriously its vital parts and saps its vitality. The longer you try to work while the body machinery is out of gear, the greater will be the damage it suffers. Health depends upon the human machine being kept in good mechanical order. Adjustment of the human body is the particular and special work of —The Spaulhurst Osteopaths—

That they are expert body mechanists, know what to do, and how to correctly fix what is mechanically wrong with the body structure is evidenced by kindly expressions of those who have given their treatment a fair trial. They give a little more satisfaction than is expected and make good every promise. They do not claim to perform miracles. Aid nature to health—that's all. Adjust the human machinery and nature makes the cure.

You are invited to call, consult and learn what ails you without charge. Do it today. Yes, you! It may not be too late. First National Bank Building, Seymour, Phone 557.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Society Takes Up the Wives of New Congressmen.

MANY CHARMING WOMEN.

But None Promises to Be More Popular Than Mrs. Pomerene, the Clever Wife of the Newly Elected Senator From Ohio.

Dear Elsa—I have been visiting over in Washington for a week, and it is surprising how many new faces one sees there now, particularly at the Congressional Woman's club, where the wives and daughters of members of congress congregate. You see, the last election made many changes in the personnel of congress, and the new people who arrived in March are as yet practically unknown quantities. Every one is wondering just where the wives and daughters of the newcomers will fit into the social scheme. There is the state of Ohio. Until recently the wives of the senators from Ohio have occupied a conspicuous place in the society of the capital. Mrs. Hanna and Mrs. Foraker were leaders whose eras will not soon be forgotten. Senator Burton has no wife, and the wife of the late Senator Dick cared little for social leadership. Every one is wondering how it will be with Mrs. Atlee Pomerene, the wife of Senator Dick's successor. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pomerene are particularly charming persons, and, although one can often say this of senators' wives, it too frequently happens that the senators themselves are lacking in savoir faire. Both the Pomerenes are equipped to shine in society if they have any taste for it, and Washingtonians are hoping that they have, for every one is pleased with this simple, unpretentious couple.

MRS. ATLEE POMERENE.

who in culture and cleverness are so much above the average. Money does not count in Washington as it does in New York or in many other cities, and so the fact that the Pomerenes are not conspicuously wealthy does not in the least interfere with their social position.

Mrs. Pomerene was Miss Mary Bockius, daughter of a Canton (O.) manufacturer. He also is an Ohioan by birth, the early part of his life having been spent on a farm in Holmes county, where his father was a country doctor. He was graduated from Princeton with honors in 1884 and after graduating in the Cincinnati Law school in 1886 settled down to practice his profession in Canton. Mr. and Mrs. Pomerene were married in 1892, and the marriage has been a very happy one. Mrs. Pomerene is her husband's comrade, his chief friend and adviser, and probably the fact that they have no children has enabled her to give more time and thought to his comfort. Clubs and similar attractions have no charm for him. He is essentially a domestic man, although far from a mollycoddle. When the Pomerenes appear in society they appear together, and Washington is learning this fact. It is quite obvious that Mrs. Pomerene admires her husband immensely. When she heard of his election to the senate she remarked to a friend:

"I always told Atlee that any one who led such an upright life and possessed such a clear conscience as he would surely reap a rich reward. Perhaps this is part of the reward."

Mrs. Pomerene is a pretty woman in the early forties. Her husband is said to be forty-seven. Neither of them has any fads. In Canton, where they have resided since their marriage, they are exceedingly popular. They have a pretty home in the neighborhood of the late President McKinley's and live as do many other prosperous, refined families of that attractive Ohio town. It is said that the people of Canton have great faith in the future of Mr. Pomerene and believe that he will go far politically. Since the passing of the McKinleys the town is no longer the Mecca of famous persons. The people of Canton believe that in Mr. Pomerene they have a presidential possibility.

The new senator from Ohio was discovered by the late Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland when he was attending a political meeting at which

Mr. Pomerene presided. Mr. Johnson discovered that the young chairman had many ideas in common with himself, and so a great friendship sprang up between them.

Mr. Johnson was instrumental in having Mr. Pomerene a candidate for the nomination of governor when Governor Harmon first was nominated. The defeated aspirant turned in to work so cordially for his successful rival that Mr. Harmon was immensely gratified and has ever since been Mr. Pomerene's friend.

To be senator Mr. Pomerene resigned the office of lieutenant governor, to which he was elected only last November, when Governor Harmon was elected for a second term. In all her husband's career Mrs. Pomerene has been his most enthusiastic helper. She has never appeared in the public limelight, but her advice and assistance have been none the less potent. It is remarkable, since so many public men owe their success to their wives, that they do not more generally champion those movements in which progressive women are interested nowadays. Mrs. Bryan, Mrs. Foraker, Mrs. Lola La Follette, Mrs. Champ Clark, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Taft and scores of other Washington women have been their husbands' best helpers in climbing the stony path that leads to glory. Yet few of these women's husbands are arrayed on the woman's side of public questions.

Speaking of women's progress, if you are at all up to date you must be a woman suffragist. You may not have the courage to march down Fifth avenue, as did the 3,000 New York women recently, yet you must have a distinct leaning the suffrage way if you do not expect to be put down by smart women as an old fogy. Some one remarked recently that it is "only the old maids and frumps who are anti-suffragists now." The suffrage parade was enough to give color to this assertion, for a finer looking lot of women it would be hard to gather together in any other movement. Not only were they comely, but there was a distinct air of good breeding about most of them. Even the little east side shirt waist makers were an intelligent looking set, and many of the college women in their caps and gowns were veritable young goddesses. There were handsome actresses, too, but the parade settled one mistake which the public has been making, and that is that the stage monopolizes all the pretty women. There were just as many pretty women artists, doctors, writers, trained nurses and stenographers as there were stage women. One morose critic on the sidewalk who had to acknowledge that few of the women were old or homely tempered his grudging admission by the comment: "But, of course, they picked out all the good looking to march today." Celebrity after celebrity in the world of art and letters and society ran the gamut of the staring lines on the sidewalks without being recognized by any but intimate friends.

MABEL.

The Visiting Housekeeper.

An innovation that simplifies housekeeping for the woman who can afford her services is the visiting housekeeper.

Will the "visiting housekeeper" become an accepted and popular institution? The profession promises, at any rate, to be novel and will doubtless find supporters among that ever increasing section of women who are prevented by social or professional duties from doing their own housekeeping. The relegating of their household affairs to an experienced substitute who will for a consideration come in for a few hours every day and take the "things of the household" in hand may be welcomed by the busy woman of means, but the more domesticated will like to keep their homes in their own hands as far as possible. Most women take a pride in "managing" their homes, even when pressed by those outside things that today absorb much of the time of even the homekeeping woman, and the majority will never be too busy to rule in their one kingdom that none can dispute.

Outdoor Tonics.

A factor all powerful in the improvement of a child's health at this season is plenty of outdoor exercise, especially walks and romps that permit a sight of growing things. Exercise and fresh air are required for a good condition of the bowels, and if the little outing is taken where nature is brave with her buds and leaves the child's joy in the run is tenfold greater. Then there is a curious sympathy between health and the gratification of the eyes, between the soul and new buds and unfolding leaves and patches of young green grass. The divine earth seems to say to the young people as to her rabbits and squirrels and birds, "Let's have a good time."

Daintier and fresher food, a laxative if needed, blue sky and the earth beneath are medicines for child and grownup.

So why send for the doctor when nine times out of ten these things and a little other good sense will "do the business?"

Pineapple For the Throat.

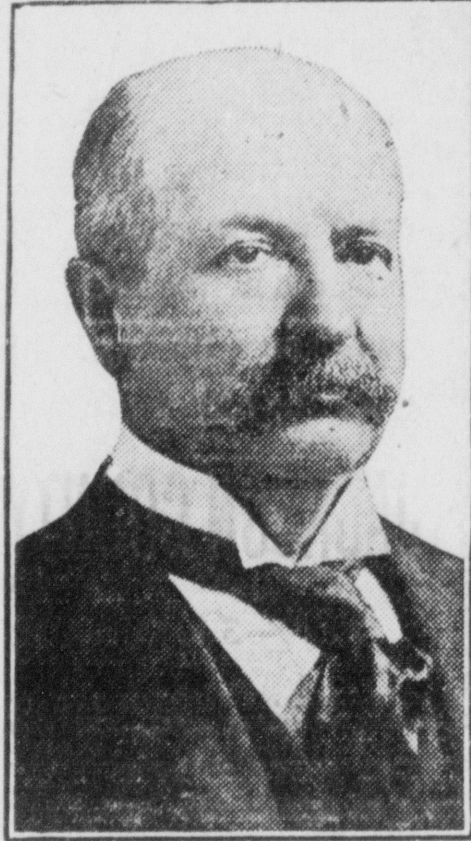

The juice of the pineapple contains a chemical principle which has the power of softening and loosening the membrane found in the throat in diphtheria. When the patient is sufficiently strong the juice pressed from a ripe pineapple should be taken into the mouth in tablespoonful doses and, after having been used as a gargle and mouth rinse, should be ejected. This may be repeated as many times as desired.

$500,000 FOR "THE MILL."

P. A. B. Widener Paid Highest Price Ever Given For a Single Canvas.

Peter A. B. Widener, the Philadelphia traction magnate, recently paid $500,000 for Rembrandt's celebrated painting "The Mill." This is the largest price ever given for a single canvas.

A score of years ago, when the British treasury agreed to buy the Raphael now in the National gallery for $350,000, the price was attacked in English newspapers as an absurd sum to squander on a few square feet of paint and canvas. More has been paid for a Holbein since. Not long ago J. Pierpont Morgan paid $385,000 for a Raphael of more interest than that in the National gallery because less known, but of less distinction because at an earlier period and a less brilliant example of the painter's work. Mrs. C. P. Huntington has recently paid $400,000 for a portrait by Velasquez, not too certain in its authorship, and a Frans Hals brought as much a year ago.

PETER A. B. WIDENER.

These prices would have seemed incredible ten years ago, but they are sound business today, taking the values of the past fifty years, to say nothing of the nobler claims of a great and magnificent canvas like "The Mill." Landscapes by Rembrandt are rare. Not another remotely to be matched with this exists outside of the national galleries. No one of them has its full equal. The painting is the best work in landscape by one of the greatest painters of all time—in some respects the greatest.

One of Mr. Widener's noblest charities was a gift of $2,000,000 to erect and endow an industrial home in Philadelphia for cripples. The patients after leaving the institution are educated and trained to become useful, healthy citizens.

APPENDIX WATCH FOB.

New York Girl Wears Late Portion of Her Anatomy on the Outside.

Miss Vera Cornell of New York is wearing her appendix as a watch charm. Her appendix first was turned into silver and then heavily plated with gold (having first been taken out, of course) and now swings jauntily at the end of a slender gold chain, its graceful fishhook form having a decidedly art nouveau decorative effect. Just where the 'pendix is linked to the chain there is engraved "Vera Cornell" in Roman letters. It is a famous little joke of the doctor after he has snipped your appendix out of your system to display it in a bottle and say, "Ah, there's the little wretch!" or "There's the enemy!" In this case Dr. Carleton Dederer said to Miss Cornell, "Would you like to have your appendix back?"

"I should say not!" she retorted. "When next you see it you will," said he, with a smile. He would say no more, but when next she saw it she did like it back. It was a thing of dull gold, appearing much like a freakily shaped nugget.

Dr. Dederer detailed the processes by which a pale, wicked appendix may be transformed into an object of art and ornament.

"I first prepare a strong solution of pyroxolin," he said, "in which I dip and wash the pendix repeatedly. That turns it hard as wood. I join a small piece of copper to the appendix and place them in a solution of silver cyanide, while a galvanic current is run through them continuously for perhaps two days. The current causes the silver cyanide to permeate every part, and the silver segregates every atom in the tissue and surrounds it completely. The appendix is thus turned to silver. Minute microscopic examination only could detect the difference between an appendix so treated and a solid piece of silver. This can be highly polished and is itself, of course, very decorative. I had Miss Cornell's appendix gold plated."

A ROYAL FAVORITE

Ambassador Reid's Daughter, Who Scorned a Title.

CAN OUTSHINE ANY PEERESS.

But Is Altogether Indifferent to Society. Devoting Herself to Her Husband and Little Boy With a Zeal That Charms England's Domestic Queen.

Mrs. John Hubert Ward, the pretty daughter of the American ambassador to England, the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, ranks easily first among the American women who have married Englishmen. It is true that her husband, a younger brother of the Earl of Dudley, is only an "honorable," and honorables are thick as hops in London, but then he is a Ward, the favorite equerry of the late King Edward and so popular with King George and Queen Mary that he is certain to be a person of importance in the new scheme of things. Before Miss Jean Reid accepted the Hon. John Hubert Ward she had refused scores of devoted noblemen, and rumor said she had even turned away one serene highness. Miss Reid didn't care for titles.

It was at Biarritz that the romance began. King Edward was staying there, and so were the Reids. The Hon. John was in attendance upon the king, who enjoyed the society of the American ambassador. While Miss Reid's father was engaged with his majesty she often found it incumbent upon herself to entertain the handsome equerry. For this reason King Edward, who always earnestly disclaimed matchmaking talent, has been credited with making the match. Certain it is that the royal set seemed much pleased with the union.

Few English brides of high degree have had such an assemblage of the royal family at the wedding as did this dainty little American girl. Queen Alexandra, especially radiant in white brocade and silver, sat with King Edward in a box of the chapel royal at St. James' palace, where, in June, 1908, the ceremony was performed. The present king and queen were there, and so, too, were Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck, the Connaughts and a hundred others of the cream of Great Britain's aristocracy.

The reception later at the home of the bride's parents, palatial Dorchester House, was a magnificent affair. The bride received as a wedding gift from her father Chilton Lodge, twenty-five miles from London, one of the most attractive country places in England. It cost just $500,000, and the new owners spent $100,000 in remodeling it. There the Wards entertain royalty, and there their son, who had a king for his godfather and a queen for his godmother, was born. Unlimited wealth is at their command.

Mrs. Ward's father is an immensely wealthy man. Her mother inherited a huge fortune from her father, the late D. O. Mills. The Hon. John Hubert Ward was worth about $2,500,000 at the time of his marriage. Mrs. Ward's parents are extremely liberal and no doubt would be pleased with their daughter's social successes. Should she become a large entertainer there is no doubt that few, if any, American hostesses could outshine the Reids' daughter with their millions and the Wards' splendid family prestige to back her. Therefore the fact that she will open her town house for the coronation festivities is a matter of much interest to many transatlantic social leaders. Her father is to entertain three kings at dinner, and but for the fact that she cares little for society the Hon. Mrs. John Hubert Ward might entertain as many queens, if they were available. As it is, no diamond peeress of American blood who will kneel to the new queen in Westminster abbey holds so enviable a position in English society as the dainty, independent daughter of the Reids.

ONLY ONE SHOT WENT ASTRAY IN THIS BOUT

Eight Negroes Killed By Two Louisianians.

New Orleans, June 10.—W. I. Boutlee and George Story, two white men, shot and killed eight negroes in ten minutes, W. I. Boutlee and George Story are believed to have broken all records for rapid and deadly revolver shooting. There was one wounded, which puts Story's score a bit ahead of Boutlee's.

The negroes were members of a section gang and Boutlee is foreman. The blacks conceived a hatred for the "boss" and plotted to kill him. They engaged in a fight among themselves and when Boutlee rushed over to stop the row, they turned upon him and one struck him over the head with a shovel. Boutlee fell but sat up, and before he finished rising to his feet, had shot four times and killed four negroes.

George Story, a conductor, heard the first loud talking among the negroes, looked at his watch and saw he had just ten minutes before train time. He ran down the track and arrived just as Boutlee finished shooting. Story then killed four negroes and wounded one, with six shots, then returned and took his train out on time.

TAILORED SHIRTWAIST

Furnished by Pictorial Review
The Pictorial Review Building

222-224-226 West 39th Street, New York City

It is a great pleasure to note that the plain tailored shirt-waist is to be much in style again. Various materials will be used for it, but the one most in favor is a white linen of good quality. It does not pay to use cheap linen in making shirt-waists, as they look gray and coarse after being laundered, and the charm of wash-blouses lies in the absolutely immaculate effect they give. This quality is possessed no less by the charming white muslins striped with pink, blue, black and gray which are used to make some of the fashionable wash-blouses of the season. The stripes run diagonally or up-and-down never across, except for cuffs, collars and folds. Nothing could be prettier to accompany a tailored suit for traveling than a blouse of this sort with stripes to match the color of the suit.

Sleeves for tailored shirt-waists are now cut kimono fashion, or separately in the regular way, on narrow straight lines. Both ways are graceful and becoming. If the kimono sleeve is cut with an under-arm curve, there will not be the difficulty in raising the arm that is sometimes experienced without the gore. Cuffs are made like a man's—suitable for links—on most of the new waists, although now and then you see the turned-back kind. Shirt linen collars and dainty bows and jabots may be worn with tailored waists, but Dutch collars are perfectly permissible and will be very much worn this year with all kinds of blouses. Exquisite lawn and lace fichus are used when the blouse is of fine material. Belts should match the skirt in order to give the necessary short-waisted effect. No belt is necessary with the high-waisted skirts made over a foundation girdle. This style is particularly to be recommended as it makes the wearer appear more slender. Avoid belts that harmonize with neither skirt nor waist, for they spoil the lines of the figure.

A good example of the new striped waist, very smart to wear with a blue serge suit, is seen in the illustration above. The material used was white muslin with a narrow blue stripe. It was cut from PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3823, which has the popular kimono sleeve, with the comfortable under-arm gore. Front, back and sleeves are in one piece having a seam down the center of the back. The strictly tailored effect is somewhat modified by the closing at the side, where medium-sized pearl buttons are used. It comes in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 takes 2 1/2 yards of material 36 inches wide.

A delightful severity of cut, verging on the masculine, distinguishes PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3849. Several white linen waists made up by this pattern will be found invaluable for many occasions. If you wish to carry out the impression of a man's negligee shirt which this style conveys, use cuff-links, and buttons about the size and shape of shirt-studs. The pocket which may be put on or not also adds to this impression. With white or light materials this is especially true. The pattern can be obtained in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 takes only 2 yards of material.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3849 is much like the one just described, except that its severity is somewhat softened by Gibson tucks, about an inch wide, running from top to bottom of the fronts and back. This style is becoming to nearly every one, and it is ideal for the business girl, or the woman who travels, or in fact anyone who wants to be extremely neat and stylish in appearance. It may be made of linen, cotton, pongee, or any fabric desired. It is one of those rare styles which make up charmingly in anything. The pattern can be obtained in bust measures 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches. Size 36 takes 2 yards of 44 inch material.

Patterns for the above numbers, including cutting and construction guides, 16 cents each number.

He Didn't Get Over.

Arthur Balfour, the British ex-premier, once was in a great hurry to get to England from his post in Ireland, and, there being no regular steamer for some days, he proposed to cross over in a cattle boat. But in the man from whom he sought information he found a home ruler of most ardent views.

"Can I cross in tonight's boat?" asked Mr. Balfour.

"No, ye can't, thin," said the Irishman.

"And why not?"

"Because 'tis a cattle boat."

"Never mind that. I'm not particular."

The home ruler gave a little laugh.

"No, Mr. Balfour," he retorted; "I dare say ye're not, but the cattle are."

Don't Feel Blue.

Oh, I like to hear a feller who will whistle at his work;

I like to hear a worker who will hum a little tune.

Ef a feller's got some music, why, he ain't so apt to shirk.

He kin change a bleak December into mild and merry June.

There's enough uv gloom an' sorer uv the kind that hez to be.

Lots uv it's imaginary; you kin whistle it away.

When you see o' trouble skulkin' in the lots behind a tree

Let him see ye're merry hearted; put your record on an' play.

What's the use o' feelin' blue?

Natur's happylike an' true.

Help the world to be more cheerful an' 'twill do the same fur you.

Blue is all right in the sky,

All right in a maiden's eye,

But don't git it in your system. It will kill you by an' by.

A Premature Question.

When President Eliot of Harvard was in active service as head of the university he was noted among the students for his abrupt and brusque manner. Reports had come to him that one of his young charges was in the habit of absorbing more liquor than was good for him, and President Eliot determined to do his duty and look into the matter.

Meeting the young man under suspicion in the yard shortly after breakfast one day, the president marched up to him and demanded, "Young man, do you drink?"

"Why—why—why," stammered the young man, "why, President Eliot, not so early in the morning, thank you."—Boston Transcript.

Badly Twisted.

An Irishman and his wife were asleep in bed when the wife thought she heard a noise downstairs, which she imagined was made by burglars, and, awakening her husband, she said, "Wake up, Pat; there are burglars downstairs." So Pat arose and hastily dressed himself, but in his haste he put his trousers on backward. Quickly grabbing a lamp, he started down the stairs; but, owing to the trousers being tight, he stumbled on the first step and fell down the whole flight. His wife heard the racket and went to the top of the stairs. "Are you hurt?" she asked. Pat arose and, feeling himself to ascertain if he was hurt, found the way he wore his trousers. "No, darlin', I'm not hurt in the least. But I'm all turned around entirely. I gave me body the devil's own twist."

Quite Informal.

Arthur Brisbane, editorial writer for Mr. Hearst, has been a great friend of John L. Sullivan, the former heavy-weight champion, for many years. When Brisbane was a newspaper writer in London, John L. was given an audience by the late King Edward, then Prince of Wales.

"By George," exclaimed Sullivan to some of his friends, "Brisbane is the leading young journalist of America, and if I meet the Prince of Wales Brisbane does too."

When the little party arrived at the palace for the audience the court attendants nearly had heart failure as John L. introduced Brisbane in these words:

"This is my pal. He's Arthur Brisbane, the leading young journalist of America."

They pointed out that a newspaper man, especially an American of that profession, could not be present at the reception.

"No Brisbane no me!" said Sullivan flatly.

Finally they were admitted, and then it was Brisbane's turn to get heart failure. Sullivan strode up to the Prince of Wales, grasped him by the hand and said in his deep voice:

"Hello, prince! Let me present Arthur Brisbane, the leading young journalist of America."—Popular Magazine.

Two Scotch Stories.

A Scotch schoolmaster in Banffshire years ago had strong views on the subject of dress. In the day when crinoline was the rage a girl came to school with a very extensive one, which much exceeded the space between the desk and the form on which she had to sit. The teacher, seeing this, said to her, "Gang awa' home and tak' off thee girds (hoops) and come back to the school as God made ye."

Another rough and ready dominie was examining his boys in a catechism and asked if God had a beginning. "No," said the boy. "Will he have an end?" "Yes," he replied. This was followed instantly by a buffet on the side of the head. "Will he have an end now?" "No," said the boy, and the master was satisfied.

BAIT FOR THE TROUT.

Was Taken, Hook and All, but Not by the Innocent Fish.

Senator Frye of Maine, who is an ardent devotee of the piscatorial art, loves now and then to relate a fish story, and he once told of a memorable trip on which Senator Spooner joined him at his choicest trout stream. They had it all arranged, after having called into counsel a reliable fish dealer and a trustworthy expressman, that a box of trout should arrive every other day at Senator Frye's home to indicate the success with which they were casting the fly.

The plan worked beautifully—"of course we caught some, and some we didn't"—but the expressman was fairly regular in the weight of fish forwarded, and the prepaid charges were about the same from day to day. All went well until one day a dispatch came from the Frye domicile:

"Rush two more boxes smoked herring. They are great. Are the salt mackerel running all right?"

There was a busy time with the wires just then, for the fish dealer had got his orders mixed, and instead of shipping fresh trout to Frye's home he had sent herring, thoroughly smoked. But the senator was equal to it. Camp supplies had been mixed with the fish caught that day, of course. He hastened his reply:

"You received the bait by mistake. Nothing but smoked herring will ever catch fresh trout, you know."

Senator Spooner concluded the tale truthfully by giving the return message:

"Received the bait and have taken it, hook and all."—National Magazine.

A Jolt For Whistler.

When Whistler, the famous artist, dropped into an English country inn the landlord became very much interested in him. He felt that he had "a somebody" in his house. Whistler noted his host's concerned interest. "And who do you suppose I am?" he asked at length.

"Well, I can't exactly say, sir," was the reply, "but I should fancy you was from the music 'alls!"

Too Eager.

Sir Henry Irving once had an amusing experience in Glasgow. For the part of the young prince in "Charles I" a little Scotch girl had been engaged. She had been carefully coached, and all went well until she appeared in the poignant scene where Mr. Irving as Charles has an agonizing leave taking with his wife and children and goes out to execution. "Promise me,"

SHE HAD BEEN CAREFULLY COACHED.

Charles says to the little prince, "that you will take care of your mother. And swear that you will never let them make you king while your brother Charles is alive," to which the child is supposed to reply, "I'll be torn to pieces first."

On this dreadful night, however, Mr. Irving only got as far as "promise me that you will take care of your mother" when out piped shrilly the annihilating reply, "I'll be tor-ren to pieces fir-r-st."

Where They Belonged.

"You can't always break the speed limit with impunity," declared a magisterial expert. "A halt has to be called somewhere. St. Peter was standing by the gate when a ninety horsepower car came up with the speed of a comet and halted in a cloud of dust with such suddenness that the good guardian was greatly startled. He held up his hand and waved the party away."

"Boys," said he, "if you want to scorch you'll have to go down below."

He Sang Them Out.

A new porter was put to work at an Irish railway station and was instructed to announce distinctly the destination of each train as it came in. Shortly after there was an arrival and the porter lustily yelled: "Change for Limerick, Galway and Mayo."

The station master, who was standing near, reproved his subordinate. "Haven't I told you," he said, "to sing out the names of the stations clearly and distinctly? Bear it in mind. Sing 'em out! D'ye hear?"

"I will, sir," replied the porter, and the passengers in the next train that arrived were considerably astonished to hear the new official singing, "Sweet dreamland faces, passing to and fro, change here for Limerick, Galway and Mayo!"

SIGHTED AN ELK.

One Party Lost the Game, While the Other Side Won the Match.

Sometimes the autumn is very hot in the Rockies—hot, still, glittering weather, with the thermometer at 90 or more.

Three hunters on such a blazing autumn day sat on the hotel porch of a small mountain town. Their shirts were open at the throat, and they were fanning themselves with their big felt hats. But suddenly one of them exclaimed:

"Look, boys, look!"

They looked where the man pointed, and a wonderful sight met their eyes. On a peak at the summit of the high trail, 3,000 feet above their heads, stood a superb elk. There he stood like a statue, his antlers beautifully outlined against the bright blue sky.

"Bucks are scarce enough, but an elk!" gasped the three hunters, and in a jiffy, forgetting the heat, they were tearing in the red hot sun up the steep trail with their rifles on their shoulders.

Up and up they climbed. The thermometer in the sun was about 120. Finally as their red, dripping and breathless leader peered on hands and knees across a log at the top of the trail he saw a man calmly chewing the stem of an unlighted cigar.

"Did you—did you see—the elk?" panted the leader.

The other, with a laugh, pointed with his cigar to where a little group of campers were unstrapping a pair of old antlers from the head of a mule.

"Pardon me, old man," he said, "but we've just run out of matches, and the day being too hot for a trip down below, we thought we might perhaps decoy a few of you fellows up here to help us out."

Pulling Teeth in Scotland.

An old Scotchwoman journeyed to London to visit her son. She was taken with a jumping toothache and upon the advice of her son visited a dentist, who soon had the offending molar flying in the air. With a sigh of relief the old lady climbed out of the chair and asked:

"How mouch?"

"Ten shillings, mam," replied the dentist.

"Ten shillings, is it, ye robber?" screamed the woman. "Why, I'll ha' ye know, Sandy MacPherson 'ud haul me all about the smithy for saxpence."

Youthful Pangs of Hunger.

There's a youngster in Boston whose appetite is a constant source of amazement to his family and relatives.

On one occasion this lad was taken to spend the day with an uncle in the suburbs. At dinner he ate so much that finally it became actually necessary to forbid him to eat any more. Later, when the family were taking their ease on the porch, the irrepressible William pulled something from his pocket and began gnawing it.

"What have you there?" demanded his father.

"Only a dog biscuit," came in apologetic tone from Willie.

"Where did you get it?"

"I knew I'd be hungry before I got home," explained the lad, "so I took it away from Fido."—Lippincott's.

His Good Resolution.

In a little Irish village there lives a certain worthy who never could pass a public house without "calling in just to ax the time."

One night, however, he made up his mind to pass by for once. It was a very hard job for him, and at intervals he stood still and said, "Stand firm, resolution, stand firm!"

After a hard struggle he gained a little bridge just beyond the inn, and, halting there, was heard to say: "Begorra, resolution, but yer did stand firm that time. Ye deserve a reward, so ye do, and, begorra, I'll just go back and trate ye."

Kith and Kin.

"The small boy," said Robert Edeson, "is an invention of Satan. At least that is what my friend Jackson thinks. Poor Jack is the devoted slave of a fair damsel cursed with a strict father and an imp of a brother. The other night dad came into the parlor about 9:30 with a 'good night' expression on his face and tactfully asked what they had been talking about to keep them so interested so late."

"Oh," said Jack carelessly, "we were discussing our kith and kin."

"Just then the imp's head popped from behind the piano."

"Yeth, dad," he lisped exasperatingly, "I heard 'em. He said, 'kin I kith you?' and she said, 'you kin!'" —Young's Magazine.

TAYLOR FLAYED JONES.

And Then, to Get Square, the Revivalist Told a Story.

Here is a well authenticated story of Sam P. Jones, revivalist and lecturer. Jones and ex-Governor Bob Taylor, now a United States senator from Tennessee, seldom met professionally in public. They were two such amazingly good drawing cards that few Chautauqua managements ever felt able to afford both of them in one day. However, one management made the plunge, and the two witty southerners found themselves on the same platform.

Taylor introduced Jones. He flayed Jones unmercifully, leaving little cuticle on him. The crowd laughed heartily and waited for Jones to take his revenge.

Jones arose. He was always cool as ice. This time was no exception. The audience held its collective breath. The scathing was about to begin.

Jones, however, said nothing to indicate that he had even heard what Taylor had said. The crowd felt that at last Jones was overmatched. He delivered his lecture and made the usual bit. Yet there was much surprise that he had not replied to Taylor.

Just as Jones finished his set talk he turned and looked at Taylor. Then he drew out, with a jerk of his thumb toward Taylor:

"Whenever I see that man anywhew I'm reminded of a little dawg I used to know down in Gawgy. That dawg lived close to the railroad track, and every evening when the fast express train went shooting through that little dawg ran out and tried to eat that train. Every night he would seem to say: 'Last night I didn't get it, but I've figured out since why it was. I'll get it this time. I'm just so hungry for an express train!' Everybody around there knew that dawg would be killed some time by that train. Bound to. Couldn't help it."

"One hot summer evening that train came along faster than evew. It was just one big, noisy cloud of dust. That little dawg ran out as usual and ran along by the tracks. He was sucked in by the draft from the train and disappeared under the trucks. Everybody said: 'Theh he went—fool dawg! We always knew he'd get it. Now he's killed, all right!'"

"But when that train had gone then came that little dawg trotting back up the track. The train hadn't killed him at all—only made a bottailer of him."

Presently the audience began to see the joke in sections, and before long it was in a scream of laughter.—Strickland W. Gillilan in Chicago News.

He Got Even.

Justus Miles Forman once in writing a story for Harper's Magazine used the name of an artist friend for the character of a chap who fell in love with a peasant girl in the Milanese. "It made all his friends roar with glee," said Mr. Forman. "But he got even with me by making a large twenty-four sheet poster for a musical comedy. There was a lady, the star, stepping out of a stage door and a long line of Johnnies waiting for her with silly smirks and bunches of violets. And every Johnnie was a portrait of me."

A Witty Retort.

As is generally the case with people who have nothing to say worth hearing, a conceited drummer talked a great deal, to the evident disgust of a number of his commercial friends who were dining at a country hotel. When cheese was served it was of a decided "lively" brand, much to the delight of the irrepressible. He attacked it with great gusto, remarking, "I'm like Samson—slaying them by the thousand!"

"Yes," replied a quick witted diner at the end of the table, "and with the same weapon too!"

Painfully Polite.

A Washington trolley car was getting under way when two women, rushing from opposite sides of the street to greet each other, met right in the middle of the car track and in front of the car. There the two stopped and began to talk. The car stopped, too, but the women did not appear to realize that it was there. Certainly.

STOPPED AND BEGAN TO TALK.

tain of the passengers, whose heads were immediately thrust out of the windows to ascertain what the trouble was, began to make sarcastic remarks, but the two women heeded them not.

Finally the motorman showed that he had a saving sense of humor. Leaning over the dashboard, he inquired in the gentlest of tones:

"Pardon me, ladies, but shall I get you a couple of chairs?"—Lippincott's.

Bold Temperance Worker Dead In Sanitarium.

SUFFERED UTTER BREAKDOWN

For Past Five Months Woman Who Had Smashed Saloons in Nearly Every State in the Union and Had Carried Her Hatchet Crusade to England, Gave Way Under Violent Strain and Was a Helpless Imbecile.

Leavenworth, Kan., June 10.—At 7 o'clock last night Carrie Nation, who gained celebrity by her use of a hatchet in the cause of prohibition, died here in the Evergreen sanitarium, to which she was admitted in January suffering from nervous breakdown. Mrs. Nation in the sanitarium was incapable of managing her business affairs. All trace of the bold prohibition worker had disappeared when her iron constitution gave way, and she spent the last five months of her life in seclusion.

Carrie Nation, who first regarded herself as a woman with a mission to destroy the rum and cigarette traffic, and later made use of her mission for vaudeville, wielded the hatchet against saloons actively in nearly every city of importance in the country and several in England for nine years, and then retired with enough money to buy a farm in Arkansas. She was arrested and held in jail for a time in nearly every city she visited.

Sprang Suddenly Into Fame.

Mrs. Nation was born in Kentucky and her maiden name was Moore. She was a schoolmate of Senator Blackburn. Her mother was said to have died in an insane asylum. Mrs. Nation was married twice. Her second husband, Captain David Nation, was a civil war veteran. Her early married life was spent in Texas. She had not been heard outside her own circle until June 6, 1909, when she and her husband were living in Medicine Lodge, Kan. One day she drove in her buggy to Kiowa and with half a dozen bricks she demolished three saloons, and would have smashed all the others in town if the proprietors had not locked their doors. She became a national character at once, and extended her operations to Topeka, Wichita, and then to other cities.

Mrs. Nation was put out of the White House in 1903, when Mr. Roosevelt was there, and was fined $25 for disturbing the senate. She ran a temperance paper, The Hatchet, in Oklahoma, and in 1900 a warrant was issued for her for sending improper matter through the mails. Captain Nation got a divorce from her in 1901 on the ground of gross neglect.

LATE REPORTS

Show Widespread Devastation in the Mexican Earthquake.

Mexico City, June 10.—Only with the partial restoration of telegraphic communication throughout the republic has the real extent of the devastation brought by the earthquake been revealed. Every dispatch received here in the last twenty-four hours has added to the horror.

The most conservative estimate prepared by the government shows that fully 1,500 have been killed, and when the inaccessible sections are heard from it is feared that the death list will go above 5,000.

New Home For Fairbanks.

Indianapolis, June 10.—Plans have been submitted for the new home of former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks at the southwest corner of Meridian and Thirtieth streets. It will be a two-story structure of stone with basement and attic. One feature will be a fully equipped gymnasium in the basement. The plans are said to be the finest ever submitted to the building inspector.

For the Good of Mexico.

Mexico City, June 10.—When General Bernardo Reyes arrived in Mexico City he was met at the station by about 8,000 people, who showed great enthusiasm. Reyes declared that he had come to work for the good of Mexico and was disposed to assist Madero in every way possible.

Victim Will Recover.

Greenfield, Ind., June 10.—John Holiday pleaded guilty to assault and battery with intent to kill. He was sentenced to prison for from two to fourteen years and taken to Michigan City. His wife, whom he shot while she was consulting a lawyer about a divorce, is recovering.

Big Class at Illini.

Champaign, Ill., June 10.—There will be more than 600 graduates at the University of Illinois. In the list will be included natives from Switzerland, China, Russia, Bohemia, Mexico and the Philippine Islands. Nineteen states will be represented.

Woman Killed in Auto Accident.

Girard, Kan., June 10.—Mrs. A. J. Wayland, wife of the owner of the Appeal to Reason, the Socialist weekly, was thrown from an automobile and killed. Mr. Wayland, who was driving, was badly bruised.

GRAND JURY WILL REST FOR AWHILE

Ohio Legislative Probe Has Been Suspended.

Columbus, O., June 10.—The grand jury yesterday indicted only three members and an assistant sergeant-at-arms of the senate, instead of returning a large batch of important indictments as had been forecasted in the legislative bribery probe. Then it announced that nothing further would be done in the way of probing for the time being, although the jury may be recalled at any time Prosecutor Turner sees fit.

One of those indicted was Representative G. B. Nye of Pike county, who although indicted four times in the past, has been acquitted in one case which was considered the strongest that the prosecution had. Nye was indicted on two bills yesterday for soliciting bribes to prevent passage of a measure designed to protect game birds. Albert Corrodi, J. H. Bradford and J. H. Smith, local business men and sportsmen, were alleged to have been approached, the former for $200 and the latter two for "certain moneys."

Stanley F. Harrison of Cleveland, senate attache, was twice indicted on a charge of aiding and abetting Nye in arranging for his meetings with the business men.

Senator T. A. Dean of Fremont was twice indicted for alleged offers of bribes to former Senators J. C. Drake of Erie county, and W. L. Atwell of Licking county, to kill the Rose county option bill while in committee. These bribes are alleged to have been offered in January, 1908, and a former Ohio mayor is alleged to have acted as intermediary.

Dean is serving his second term in the senate and is the recognized leader of the liquor interests.

Mrs. Kingdon, mother of Mrs. George Gould, is dead in Paris.

Starts to Work to Defeat
Root Amendment.

RECIPROCITY BILL IN DANGER

Declaration of Chairman Underwood That House Will Not Accept the Measure if Sent Back From the Senate With the Root Amendment Tacked Onto It, Serves to Alarm the President.

Washington, June 10.—President Taft has started to work for the defeat of the Root amendment to the reciprocity bill in the senate. The president seems to have taken in good faith the declaration of Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee that the house would not accept the bill again if the Root amendment is adopted, and is going to strain every nerve to keep the reciprocity bill from undergoing the test of Underwood's threatened opposition.

The Democratic chairman told the president plainly that the house had done all it would for reciprocity. He said that if the bill went into conference with the Root amendment the house would refuse to accept the bill unless the senate receded from its demand for the amendment. The enemies of the bill in the senate are too strong or, rather, too many of its supporters are lukewarm, to have the bill stand the strain of a severe fight over a conference report at the last moment, and the president is alarmed for its safety.

RIOTING AT CLEVELAND

Garment Makers' Strike Leads to Scenes of Violence.

Cleveland, June 10.—One hundred policemen, summoned to the scene of a riot between striking garment workers and their sympathizers and non-union workmen, last evening charged on the rioters. One man was shot and at least a half dozen seriously injured. Scores suffered battered heads and body bruises.

About 600 men and women gathered in front of a factory on West Twenty-fifth street as the non-union workmen were about to leave the building. A brick hurled into the crowd caused the riot. When the police arrived the strikers and non-union men were hurling bricks, clubs and stones.

Patrolman John Breker was struck on the head. He shot Roselli Doloungo, a striker, in the thigh. Another man received a gash in the throat.

Later a crowd of strikers gathered at a plant on West Forty-seventh street to force out the non-union workers. Another riot call brought a squad of police and the crowd was dispersed.

Victim of Murderous Burglar.

Greensboro, N. C., June 10.—Mrs. Ida Hill, widow of the late Dr. J. S. Hill of Lexington, N. C., was found gagged, tied and dead in her room at the residence of her mother, Mrs. J. S. Ragsdale of Jamestown. The bureau drawers had been left open and sacked, the booty being found tied in napkins on the dining table, and an open window in the room showed that the burglars, of whom no trace has been discovered, had become alarmed and suddenly left.

Another Aviator Killed.

Rome, June 10.—In sight of thousands who were watching him fly in the Tiber river circuit races, Aviator Raemondo Marra's machine struck a telegraph pole and the engine immediately exploded, setting fire to the planes. The machine fell to the ground and Marra was buried under the wreckage. He lived only a few minutes after being extricated.

Made the Lad Look On.

Newport, Tenn., June 10.—Interrupted in their work on the safe in the Newport postoffice by the sixteen-year-old son of Justice Cate, robbers overpowered the lad and, blindfolding him, compelled him to stand within a few feet of the safe when nitroglycerin, drilled into it, exploded. The robbers escaped with $500.

The Perils of the Air.

Berlin, June 10.—Schenkel, one of Germany's most daring airmen, and his engineer, Voss, were killed near here. They were in a monoplane 5,000 feet in the air when the motor stopped and the machine fell.
